What is a battery management system (BMS)?

Summary A battery management system (BMS) is one of the core components in electric vehicles (EVs). It is used to monitor and manage a battery system (or pack) in EVs. This chapter focuses on the composition and typical hardware of BMSs and their representative commercial products.

What are the key points of the NextGeneration BMS?

It finally discusses three key points of the next-generation BMSs: self-heating management, safety management of battery systems, and the application of cloud computation in BMSs. Need Help? A public charity, IEEE is the world's largest technical professional organization dedicated to advancing technology for the benefit of humanity.

What are the different types of BMS?

Depending on the number of cells in a battery system, BMSs can generally be divided into two categories: centralized and distributed. The chapter explains some of the commercial BMS products, such as E-Power, K1clear and Tesla, and some of the chips which can be used to design BMSs.
